- Life cycle terms:
- End of Marketing (EOM): Indicates the cessation of sales for a specific version. Upon reaching End of Marketing, new subscriptions or purchases of resources are no longer permitted for the designated engine version.
  - End of Full Support (EOFS): Indicates the point at which standard software defect fixes for a given cloud service version are discontinued. Post-EOFS, software updates will primarily address critical defects and security vulnerabilities.
  - End of Service and Support (EOS): Indicates the complete termination of services for the specified version. It is strongly recommended to select the latest engine version when deploying a cluster. Following the End of Service and Support date, Huawei Cloud will no longer provide any form of technical support for this software version.
